

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN GLOBAL URBAN HEALTH

Master Thesis Cohort 2017/2018

Cohort	Student	Title
2017/2018	Mohammad Samer Abboud (Syria)	Rebuilding health system after crisis in Syria, an overview of the current situation and the recommended actions
	Jude Osagie Aighobahi (Nigeria)	Assessment of the Integration of Tuberculosis and Diabetes Care; A situation analysis in Lagos, Nigeria
	Peter Asaga (Nigeria)	Needs assessment of emergency medical and rescue services in Abuja and environs
	Rocio Cardenas Sanchez (Colombia)	Transmission Dynamics of Aedes Borne Diseases and Potential Alarm Signals for Outbreaks in Cucuta, Colombia
	Maria Angelica Carillo Diaz, (Colombia)	Assessing the Entomological Risk for Dengue, Zika and Chikungunya Transmission in Cucuta, Colombia
	Maryam Ibrahim (Nigeria)	Current Status and Future Needs. Emergency Medical Rescue Services in Lagos, Nigeria
	Sara Jauragui Buitrago (Colombia)	Improving the mental health of displaced population in Colombia: The impact of the training program for health care workers in Valledupar and Guajira (Colombia)
	Mazin Omer (Sudan)	Female Community Health Volunteers in Nepal, what can be their roles in Visceral Leishmaniasis (VL) case detection and vector surveillance
	Monica Perez Mendez (Mexico)	Support perception in Gambian asylum seekers of a German First Reception Camp, and the attitudes from volunteers
	Tatiana Rivera Ramirez, (Colombia)	A systematic review of the oral health in refugee and migrants in Europe in order to generate a better approach in oral health care
	Evan Wallace (Australia)	Consideration of social determinants of health in Early Childhood Intervention; A study of urban and regional Victorian community health programs
	Lina Younis (Jordan)	Housing conditions and their surrounding environments as a risk factor for Visceral Leishmaniasis transmission in Nepal